

WALKS INTO HOSPITAL WITH BULLET IN HEAD

CHICO, Cal., Feb. 14.—Claude K. Jewett, who accidentally shot himself in the face on a ranch near here and probably lost the sight of his right eye, walked to the hospital here and lay conscious on the operating table while the surgeons extracted the breech block of a rifle, which was imbedded three inches in his head. When the operation was completed he announced, "Gee that hurt." Jewett was shooting hogs when the breech block of the rifle failed to engage and was blown from the stock

30TH TO BE HOME SOON.
KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 14.—That the Old Hickory Division is now moving and will be home soon was the news contained in a cablegram received here from Captain Acuff, with the Thirtieth Division. "Thirtieth moving, home soon," the cablegram read.

EX-KAISER, MORBID, IS NEAR COLLAPSE

SGRAVENHAGE, Holland, Feb. 14.—The Maasbode published the following telegram from Cologne dated February 8:

"We had today an opportunity to speak to a person who is an old acquaintance of the Kaiser, to whom permission was given to visit the former monarch on his birthday at Amerongen. Although a large quantity of flowers had come to Holland from Germany, and everything was done to make the day pass festively, efforts to lift the Kaiser out of heavy, morbid anxiety, which he suffers, were not for the moment successful. Attempts made recently by American journalists to gain access to him, if possible, increased this anxiety."

Shrinks From Friend.
The former Kaiser is alarmed as soon as any one approaches him. When the visitor who is an old acquaintance, stepped toward him, the former Kaiser stepped some paces back. He did not recognize his friend, so the latter had to introduce himself.

"The Kaiser then remembered him vividly, and as if he had waited to pour forth his heart, gave vent to his feelings and laid bare all his troubles. Our informant thought it undesirable for two reasons to communicate what passed in the interview with the Kaiser: first, for political reasons easily understood; second, because everything he said gave one the impression of a man who was near a complete mental collapse."

Says He Was Deceived.
"He jumped continually from one subject to another and seemed sometimes to have no idea of his real position. He regards himself as one deceived. His general advisers, diplomats, Catholics, Jews, and Freemasons, he thought all had deceived him."

"If the former Kaiser did not recognize his visitor, it was almost the same with the visitor. Our informant assured us if he had met the former Kaiser on the street he never would have recognized him. Of the former Kaiser's bearing, no trace remained. Imagine an old man leaning on a stick, bent and decrepit, with snow-white hair and dress unclean, for uniform which seemed to hang loosely on a skeleton—a person frightened at every noise, who creeps away timidly from every one. He passes through his apartments at his place of refuge in Amerongen like a physically and mentally broken man."

Thief Robbed of $10,000 Loot, Then Gets 5 Years; Hard Luck? Never Worse

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—Burglar, burgling, burgled, was the wall sent up to Judge Rosalsky in General Sessions Court yesterday by Harry Mitchell, whose police record, when appended to his name, gives it an imposing appearance.

"I played a lone hand in this burglary, your honor," said Harry mournfully. "I packed up $10,000 worth of dresses in a box and hired a taxi to take 'em away. And what did that taxi driver and a man with him up and do but take 'em away on me? I never got a cent."

"Hard luck," commiserated the court.

"Yes, I'll say it was," remarked Harry. "And then, while I was in the Tombs, some one sneaked in my room and cleaned it out. Luck's surely against me."

"I agree with you," said the judge, and added a bit to the hard luck by sending Harry to prison for five years.

MEXICO FRIENDLY, CARRANZA AVOWS

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 14.—In an interview given exclusively to the San Antonio Express and San Antonio Evening News at the City of Mexico, President Carranza dictated the following message to the people of the United States:

"My message to the people of the United States is: The people of Mexico are cordial toward the people of the United States, but the policy of the foreign interests, which at times threatens the interests of the Mexican people, has created a sentiment of distrust for which the Mexican people cannot be blamed. On the other hand, the American people misled by these same interests, think the Mexican people unfriendly and this policy, followed by the foreign interests and spread throughout the country in their press, is responsible for this distrust and lack of cordial understanding between the two peoples."

President Carranza said that shortly Mexico, in all probability, will begin paying in part the interest of her foreign indebtedness. This includes the interest on the railroads that are steadily being put in better shape. The revenues of the country are now on such a scale that the necessary big budget is soon to be met and the prospects are for a surplus.

"I am going to devote the remainder of my administration to the conversion of our financial obligations," said Carranza.

The President stated that Mexico is at peace; that the occasional outbreaks of lawlessness in isolated sections are not military problems, but are due to pernicious activity of interests seeking intervention. Along this line he spoke with emphasis, showing a depth of resentment against outside interference in Mexico's political matters.

HAS OLD RIFLE THAT DANIEL BOONE USED

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 14.—Daniel Boone's rifle, the genuine old-fashioned flintlock, carried by Boone on many a perilous trip in the dark and bloody hunting grounds of Kentucky and on his famous Indian hunting expeditions, was recently brought into a hardware store in a small town in southwestern Wisconsin for much needed repairs. It is now the property of Mr. Rafter, Plattville, Wis., formerly of Mississippi, who recently traded his 2,300-acre plantation for Wisconsin property, and has moved his effect North. The rifle was given him by a doctor, to whom it had been given by an aged hermit living in the mountains of Tennessee.

The rifle is a formidable affair: a real "long rifle," one of the type that gave the nickname of the "long rifles" to our Western frontiersmen. It has a barrel forty-six inches long, is sixty-two inches over all, a .45-caliber, a flintlock with a patchbox of inlaid silver, and weighs ten pounds. The end of the butt is set with a wild boar's tusk, and has the double or set trigger.

On the side of the stock are carved with a jackknife the words, "Boon's True Friend," on the walnut stock the initials "D. B." and five most significant and sinister notches, each notch standing for "one good Indian." At the lower end of the stock is a long and deeply cut gash said to have been cut by an Indian tomahawk thrown at Boone. What happened to the Indian is not recorded.

FEW CRIMINALS IN A. E. F., SAYS SLEUTH

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—"The percentage of crime and criminals in the American army was exceedingly small; most of our troubles were caused by neutrals who had settled in the larger cities of France."

This statement by Capt. Bernard J. Flood as he stepped from the transport Santa Theresa gives a semi-official stamp in a vital spot to the rumor that crime had been rampant in the American expeditionary force. For Captain Flood, the "Barney" Flood, well known at New York police headquarters as one of the city's best detectives, had been for eighteen months chief of the division of criminal investigation of the A. E. F., and possesses exact knowledge of conditions.

"As to the 'American crime wave' continued Captain Flood, "it was caused by a sensational Paris newspaper. All talk of organized American gangs impresses me as bunk. Possibly the end of the war brought its outbreak of assaults and robberies in Paris, just as it has done. I have no doubt, in New York, Chicago, Washington, and other cities at home."

"I can well imagine that some of the men in the army who are 'known to the police' may have said: 'Now that we have done our bit, it's up to us to see France.' They haven't the money to see France with, and it may be they will pick it up. Here and there three and four of them may go about together, but there is no large number of American deserters in CHICAGO, Feb. 14.—Three boys, aged ten, told police they had slain Walslaw Widelka, a friend the same age, for money with which to buy beer. One of them braided him with a beer bottle while he was asleep, and took $3. His father had given him the money to pay a gas bill.

Why Swift & Company Handle Poultry, Eggs, Butter and Cheese

Swift & Company went into the produce business because they saw a crying need for the kind of service they were equipped to perform.

The produce business was in chaos. Collecting, transportation, preparation and distribution was hit-or-miss, with delay, deterioration and loss on every hand.

The farmer was at the mercy of an uncertain, localized market. He had no way of reaching through to the people who needed what he was raising for them. There was no premium upon improving his stocks, for grading was lax or lacking.

The consumer had to accept produce that, as a rule, had no known responsible name behind it. He had no way of knowing how long the eggs or the butter he was buying had been lying around in miscellaneous lots in the back room of a country store. Much of the poultry was not properly refrigerated before shipment or properly protected by refrigeration in transit.

Swift & Company's initiative brought system to this chaos. Their organization, equipment, and experience in handling perishable food products were already adjusted to the task. Their refrigerator cars, branch houses, central points, far-reaching connections, trained sales force, supplied just what was demanded.

Now the farmer has a daily cash market in touch with the nation's needs with better prices. Standardization makes better produce more profitable. More consumers are served with better, fresher, finer foodstuffs.

Nothing suffers from this save inefficiency, which has no claim upon public support.
